WHO IS RESPONSIBLE?

AN APPEAL FOR FAIR JUDGMENT IN THE EUROPEAN WAR MADE BY JUDGE

"Though the White Paper covers five pages of the American newspaper in which I found it, the essential facts pertinent to this larger question are few and can be compactly stated. The first of these—trite enough, but never to be lost sight of—is that the Austro-Hungarian monarchy contains a very large Slav population—the race of the Servians also—some of it added in recent years. This constituted, to say the least, a highly inflammable anti-Austrian material to anyone disposed to start a fire within the Austro-Hungarian boundaries. Another fact—not so trite, but equally important—is that Servia has been systematically distributing firebrands throughout this inflammable matter. 'It was a subversive movement,' says the Austrian foreign minister in one of the dispatches constituting the White Paper, 'intended to detach from Austria a part of her empire, carried on by organized societies in Servia, to which Servian high officials, including ministers, generals and judges belonged, and resulting in the assassination of the heir to the throne and his wife,' not as the individual mad deed of a Guiteau or a Czolgosz, we might add, but of 'an organized propaganda and conspiracy' that developed itself in several attempts, at several unconnected points, by several persons, on the same day; a statement of the Servian attitude nowhere denied in this English White Paper, either in the London foreign office or the embassies at Paris or St. Petersburg. On the contrary Sir Edward Grey says he cannot help but look with sympathy on the basis of the Austro-Hungarian complaint. And Servia herself practically admits the truth of it, in her reply to the Austrian ultimatum, for though she calls whatever agitation took place 'political'—that is to say, something whose object is the change of government and not private murder—she offers to dissolve the Narodna Odbrana, a revolutionary society, and every society which may be 'directing its efforts against Austria-Hungary'; to introduce a law providing for the most severe punishment of 'publications calculated to incite hatred against the territorial integrity of Austria'; to remove from the 'public educational establishments' in Servia everything calculated to foment propaganda against Austria; to publish in the official gazette and read to the army this promised new attitude of Servia to Austria; and to remove from military service all such persons as judicial inquiry may have proved to be guilty of acts directed against the integrity of the territory of Austria-Hungary—promises no people would make unless there was a basis of fact for the complaint.

"But though Servia thus acknowledged the basis of the complaint, and promised to take measures to remedy it, she refused the 'collaboration' of Austrian representatives, or the participation of Austrian 'delegates' in the investigations relating thereto. She made no straight-out denial of the subversive movements alleged. The most that can be made of her answer is that she neither admits nor denies, but simply calls for the proofs. But she refused the presence of Austria at the taking of the proofs. In a word, as Austria viewed it, should the promised investigation be a whitewash, or should it be a sincere effort to locate responsibility? Austria wanted a sincere investigation—the attitude of Servia looks as if she wanted a whitewash. And it was on this that the two countries broke.

"Now was Austria-Hungary right in making the demand and Servia wrong in refusing the demand that Austrian delegates sit in at the investigation. That is the crux of the matter as a question between Austria and Servia. The conduct of nations, like that of individuals, must stand the test of common sense. And like individuals, nations have the right to have their word taken in matters of this kind until their word is no longer good, by being repeatedly broken; so that had this been the first complaint by Austria against Servia on this matter, and this Servia's first promise to live hereafter on friendly relations, there would have been no justification for Austria's demand, or for her refusal to take Servia's word that a fair investigation would be made and the guilty punished. But this White Paper shows that this was not Servia's first promise—that she had made former promises—that this new offer of her word was the offer of an already broken word. This is the third fact in the inquiry—the turning fact in the question of who was wrong and who was right—a

INFORMATION OF VALUE

SOME PERTINENT FACTS ABOUT THE PANAMA CANAL PRESENTED

Time required to go through the canal, from 10 to 12 hours.

Freight will be charged $1.20 a ton; passengers are free.

American coastwise ships may pass through free of all charges.

The canal will save 8000 miles between New York and San Francisco.

New York is brought 5000 miles nearer Valparaiso and the west coast of South America.

Our Atlantic seaports are 4000 miles nearer Australia.

The distance to the Philippine islands is not reduced materially.

Bulk products, like wheat, lumber, minerals, wool, hides and wines, will get lower freight rates through the canal from Pacific ports.

Eastern machinery, textiles, manufactured and finished products will enjoy cheaper rates to Pacific ports.

Staple products of the south—cotton, iron, coal, lumber and ship supplies—will have similar advantage to the Orient and Pacific ports.

Immigration will be deflected in large numbers from New York to Pacific ports.

The cost of operating the canal will exceed $4,000,000 annually.

About 2500 employes will be required.

To pay interest on the investment and operating expenses, approximately $15,000,000 revenue per annum will be needed.

Traffic experts estimate that for the first few years the average annual tonnage will be 10,000,000, not enough at the $1.20 rate to make the canal self-supporting.

The rates charged vessels are the same as those at Suez.

The government will monopolize the business of supplying coal and provisions and operating repair facilities.

Great dry docks, wharves, warehouses, repair shops and other facilities to cost $20,000,000 are under construction.

All permanent buildings will be of the Italian Renaissance style of architecture. The route of the canal will be beautified with trees, etc.

Storage for 450,000 tons of coal, maximum capacity, is provided. Normal storage capacity, 37,000 tons. Oil, 160,000 barrels.

Monster 270-ton floating cranes will handle wrecks or accidents in the canal or locks.

Warships of all nations may pass through the canal, but cannot linger more than 24 hours at either end in time of war.

The interstate commerce commission has jurisdiction over all canal traffic.

But the fact of greatest importance to those interested in the island is that the Isle of Pines is right in the path of steamers passing to and from the states. More, Los Indios is on that side of the island facing the pathway of the boats. And having the only deep-water harbor on the island, it will be the logical port of entry for any boats making the island a port of call.—Exchange.

ADVERTISING NATION'S SCHOOLMASTER

Advertising is becoming the national schoolmaster, as you may have observed as you scanned the columns of this and other newspapers.

Telephone companies who seek to improve their service advertise ways and means for using the phone to the best advantage.

Some of them impress on the public the advantage of courtesy—using newspaper space actually to teach good manners. And they say it pays.

Gas companies every now and then run interesting campaigns explaining new uses for gas—uses which save time and labor and money.

Railroads and other interests frequently appeal directly to the public on some great questions, using the advertising columns of the newspapers.

All of this goes to make advertising a more interesting and important factor in our daily lives.

Not to read the announcements in the newspapers is to be out of date. —Knoxville Sentinel.

TO GIVE CARD PARTY

Mrs. D. W. Hunt and Mrs. Helen I. Campbell will be hostesses next Thursday evening at a large card party in the home of the former, 120 West Fifth street. Everything for this affair, which is to be given for the St. Mark's choir, will be suggestive of Hallowe'en and a very happy time is assured the sixteen tables of guests who will enjoy this night.

Assisting the hostesses will be the Misses Dorothy Hunt and Ruth Wilson.

HELPLESS IN WAR

LIVES SACRIFICED AND HOMES RUINED FOR ONLY "LOVE OF COUNTRY"

The principle of slavery is to be abhorred by every intelligent citizen, and yet millions of intelligent men are slaves of war in European countries at the present. These men, the majority of them, know not why they stand up as dumb brutes for the slaughter, and neither do those who slaughter them know why the cruel deed was committed. We Americans who form a neutral standpoint witness the great conflict, but can see no cause for all this loss of life. A review of Thursday's doings is about as follows:

BERLIN (via London), Oct. 22, 10:25 p. m.—"On the Yser canal heavy fighting is still in progress," an official announcement issued tonight from chief headquarters says. "The enemy was reinforced by artillery fire from the sea at a point to the northwest of Nieuport, but in the engagement a British torpedo boat was put out of action by our artillery.

"Fighting continued to the west of Lille, and here also our troops have assumed the offensive and have repulsed the enemy at several points. The English have lost several machine guns.

"No decision has yet been reached in the eastern theater of the war."

BERLIN, Oct. 22 (via Amsterdam and London, 8:30 p. m.)—The German war office makes public the following dispatch received from general headquarters of the army dated this (Thursday) forenoon:

"The fighting on the Yser canal continues. Eleven British war vessels assist the enemy's artillery.

"East of Dixmude the enemy was repulsed. Our troops have advanced successfully in the direction of Ypres.

"The battles to the northwest of Lille are very severe, but the enemy is slowly retreating along the whole line.

"Fierce attacks from the direction of Toulon Heights, south of Thiancourt, were repulsed with heavy losses to the French.

"The fact is that the British admiral commanding the fleet off Ostend wanted to bombard the town, but finally was persuaded by the Belgian authorities to abstain."

ENDOWING WOMAN SUFFRAGE CAUSE

Woman's suffrage as a cause has had successive increments of power in the United States within the last generation. As to its pioneers have been added wage-earning women, college-trained women and society leaders of wealth and prominence, it has commended itself to an increasing number of men voters. With the recent endowment of the cause by Mrs. Leslie a precedent has been established that if imitated will considerably enforce the movement on its strategic and pecuniary sides, making propaganda work possible on a larger scale. Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, who more than any other person will determine the use of the fund of which she is the recipient in trust, says that it will double the impetus of the work.

The advantages of an endowment for a cause never can alter the equally necessary duty of constant giving by the rank and file of contemporary workers. Used as a reserve fund for demands that must be met when the gifts of adherents are slackening, or set apart for enterprises that take time and patience to work out, the endowments of a cause prove beneficent. They are otherwise if used to relieve the supporters of a faith from proving their loyalty to it by their gifts from earnings or incomes.

This endowment fund, as Mrs. Catt already has said, will be administered in a national and not sectional way and by a representative body of trustees called by her to the task. So handled, the cause must gain headway where now most seriously opposed, for there is an opportunity to organize state campaigns not dependent on local adherents for pecuniary resources. There can be more mobility to the propaganda force and a swifter massing of tacticians and auxiliaries.

ADVERTISING BY TELEPHONE

It is related of a certain department store owner in Oklahoma that having discovered the tendency of rural people to "hang on the phone" and listen to his conversations with his distant friends and customers, he adopted the clever expedient of injecting some good advertising into his telephone conversations. He would always make it a point to mention some especially fine bargains, etc. The gossip-mongers fall for his strategies regularly and he is enjoying increased sales.

As a courtesy to Miss Jewel Foster and her fiance, Mr. Ray Landis, who have chosen December 4 as the date of their wedding, Miss Clara Jenkins of 730 Glendale avenue will entertain at dinner in her home this evening, Miss Seccombe of 130 East Colorado boulevard being the only Glendale guest present. The betrothed couple are both from Los Angeles, but after a brief wedding trip expect to make Glendale, where they have a wide circle of friends, their home.

THIMBLE PARTY

An enjoyable time was spent on Thursday afternoon of this week by members of the J. T. club in the home of Miss Aileen Cole, 331 Orange street, the house being beautifully decorated for the occasion with yellow and white chrysanthemums.

After an hour of sewing, music and dainty refreshments were enjoyed by the Misses Helen Begg, Ruth Anderson, Anabel McClellan, Gladys Manning, Gladys Mason, Ruth Begg, Ruth Cole, Louise Hester and the hostess, Aileen Cole.

POLITICAL CLUB MEETS

FINAL ARRANGEMENTS FOR RECEPTION OF GOV. JOHNSON ARE MADE

A meeting of the active members of the Johnson-Eshleman non-partisan club met in J. F. Lilly's office, 1010 Broadway, Thursday afternoon and made final arrangements for the reception of Governor Hiram Johnson in Glendale on the evening of Wednesday, October 28.

The meeting was called to order by Chairman W. E. Evans, who said that people in the valley are looking forward to the Johnson rally of the 28th to go ahead of any demonstration of the kind outside of Los Angeles.

The governor will arrive in the valley shortly after the noon hour and in company with Glendale supporters he will visit San Fernando, Lankershim and Van Nuys, making a brief address at each one of these cities.

He will likely be entertained at dinner in a Glendale home, and at 8 o'clock he will speak in the high school auditorium. The Glendale municipal band will play early in the evening at Casa Verdugo and Tropico and returning to Glendale the band will play at the corner of Glendale avenue and Broadway and from there they will go to the corner of Broadway and Brand, where after playing briefly, they will proceed to the high school auditorium.

T. W. Watson and A. T. Cowan have been named as a committee to arrange for the band music.

The committee appointed for procuring automobiles to be used in making the trip over the valley on Wednesday are J. W. Usilton, Dr. Nat Green, W. W. McElroy, J. G. Hunchberger, G. B. Woodberry and Attorney W. T. Sprowls.

The appointment of another important committee was the decorating committee, whose duty it will be to decorate the school auditorium. The members of this committee are Albert D. Pearce, Mrs. Frank Grosvenor, Wm. H. West and Mrs. J. G. Hunchberger.

COURTESY

Treating a customer like a rich uncle, so that you may extract his coin, is not courtesy—that's foresight.

Offering a seat to the man who enters your office is not courtesy—that's duty.

Listening to the grumblings, growlings and groanings of a bore, without remonstrating, is not courtesy—that's forbearance.

Offering your companion a cigar when you light one yourself is not courtesy—you'd be ill-bred if you didn't.

Helping a pretty girl to cross the street, holding her umbrella, carrying her poodle—none of these is courtesy. The first two are a pleasure, and the last is politeness.

Courtesy is doing that which nothing under the sun makes you do but human kindness. Courtesy springs from the heart; if the mind prompts the action, there is a reason; if there be a reason, it is not courtesy, for courtesy has no reason.

Courtesy is good will; and good will is prompted by a heart full of love to be kind.—The Ambassador.

ENTHUSIASTIC DRY MEETING

"California dry" is on the tongue of everybody, and especially was this true Thursday night in Glendale when the big mass meeting was held in the high school auditorium.

The meeting was presided over by Attorney O. O. Clark, who in his opening address announced the big parade and mass meeting for Monday evening, November 2, just the day before the election.

An orchestra of young men furnished excellent music. A company of boys and girls sang "California Dry" in a very touching manner. A Miss Simpson very ably recited a selection showing the disadvantages following the life of a drunkard.

R. Gilhousen gave a recitation that illustrated clearly the folly of the drink habit.

A chorus under the direction of C. D. Lusby sang several temperance songs which contained convincing argument against the liquor traffic.

Rev. Stephens of Pasadena delivered the address of the evening. He spoke on the question "California Dry" in a sensible, practical and convincing manner.

It made it very clear that the brewers and distillers are becoming hard run for an excuse to offer against California "dry."

Mrs. G. B. Woodberry of 404 South Glendale avenue has gone north to spend ten days or two weeks with her daughter, Miss Anna Woodberry, a student at Berkeley.

EVENING OF CARDS

BRIDE-ELECT AND HER FIANCE ARE BEING GENEROUSLY ENTERTAINED

Marigolds of brightest yellow, together with dozens of shaggy chrysanthemums of the same hue, were combined with fern and trailing vines and arranged in baskets and vases throughout the attractive home of Mrs. Anna L. Smith, 1427 Riverdale drive, Thursday evening, when, in compliment to Miss Katherine Wells and her fiance, Dr. James Luther Flint, she entertained most delightfully at cards.

Five Hundred was the chosen pastime and for score cards fetching little Hallowe'en conceits were used. Miss Elizabeth Lange scored highest for ladies' first prize, a beautiful hand-painted tray, which she presented to the honored guest, who has concluded that bride-elects are very fortunate, in as much as Mr. C. H. Munson, winner of one of the gentlemen's prizes, also bequeathed his trophy, a box of handsome stationery, to the bride-to-be.

Dr. Flint captured the leather wallet given as gentleman's first prize, and Mr. W. W. Worley received a novelty clothes and hat brush as second.

Music and songs followed the dainty yellow and white collation, which was served at a late hour, and then the following guests departed for their respective homes: Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Boyer, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. R. Z. Imler, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Clemons, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Worley, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Woolsey, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Wheeler, Mrs. Mary Ogden Ryan, Mrs. Anna Miller, Miss Harriett M. Wells, Miss Elizabeth Lange, Miss Lillian Mills, Marcella Miller, Mr. C. H. Munson, Mr. W. Fiske, Mr. Ballah and the two honorees.

Assisting the charming hostess during the evening were Mrs. D. H. Smith, Mrs. Miller and little Marcella Miller.

Tonight Miss Lillian Mills will be hostess at a "dear party" in her home, 422 South Louise street, in honor of Miss Wells, and Saturday afternoon Miss Dorothy Smith of 110 South Louise street, will entertain the bride-elect and a few friends informally with a thimbletea.

BIRTHDAY DINNER

A very merry dinner party was enjoyed Wednesday evening in the home of Mrs. M. Scott, 315 North Glendale avenue, Tropico, when in celebration of the birthday anniversary of her son, Mr. James P. Scott, a number of young people arrived upon the scene to make merry.

Chrysanthemums were used exclusively throughout, a pretty yellow and white motif having been adopted for table decorations, at which a delicious course dinner was served at 7 o'clock. Dancing followed, out-of-town guests for the evening having been the Misses Pykie, Powell, St. John and Mr. L. Pykie of Los Angeles and Pasadena.

MRS. HOAGLAND HOSTESS

Mrs. R. A. Hoagland proved herself a charming hostess Wednesday afternoon when she entertained as guests in her home members of the Wednesday Afternoon Thimble club. After the usual hour or two of industrious work, delicious dainties were brought forth to refresh the guests, who numbered eight.

Mrs. Henry Wilson will be the next hostess, entertaining in her home, corner Second street and Central avenue, the first Wednesday in November.

BUFFET SUPPER

Of current interest to the "social speeders" of the week is the buffet supper at which Miss Augusta Otto entertained a group of Campfire Girls in her home, 1500 Riverdale drive.

Following the delicious repast, which was served in the dining-room, wherein Hallowe'en suggestions were varied and many, the customary ceremonial meeting was held. The formalities of this having been dispensed with, plans were made for social activities during the winter months, and a jolly hour of fun was enjoyed.

Those who accepted Miss Otto's cordial hospitality were Miss Edith Tyler, guardian, and the Misses Rosemary Button, Hazel Tyler, Alice Patterson, Inez McKinney, Erma Patterson, Ethel Preston, Elizabeth Smith, Ruby Farnsworth, Miriam Garrett, Elsie Tyler, Carol Willisford and Mrs. A. S. Chase, who assisted the hostess during the evening.

Miss Louise Butterfield of 142 South Kenwood street, Glendale, has gone to Calexico, Imperial county, Cal., to spend a couple of months with friends.

STICK TO YOUR PROMISE

"Build on reputation; nurse your trade; make friends of every customer — not necessarily personal friends, but friends for your store. If you promise something in return for the response to your advertising, be sure to fulfil your pledge to the customer's satisfaction. If you promise your boy a 'licking,' be sure he gets it. If ever you find the 'licking' was undeserved, apologize, make amend, and this same thing holds good in advertising."—Joseph Sigmund.

In Oregon women who abstain from voting are told frankly that they are less useful to good citizenship since the franchise was granted them than when they were fighting for it. This marks the distinction between interest and indifference in public affairs.

FOREST NOTES

As many as seventy-two different kinds of wood are used in the manufacture of umbrella handles, canes and whips in this country.

Authentic records show that cinders, from a forest fire in the tree-tops in Northern Washington this fall, were carried a distance of twenty miles.

According to the latest available figures, Pennsylvania stands fifth in the production of wood pulp and is second to West Virginia in the amount of slabs and other sawmill waste used for pulp; Maine stands third.

The better wood engravings are made almost exclusively of boxwood, and the large blocks are made of small pieces glued together. The engraving is done across the end of the grain. Japanese wood prints, on the other hand, are made on lengthwise sections of cherry wood parallel to the grain.

Throughout the national forests the rangers are posting the roads with permanent guide signs which tell distances and directions, especially at forks and cross-roads. The signs are usually put up in the winter when other work tends to be light. On some forests the rangers go on snowshoes, dragging loaded sleds and nail the signboards to the roadside trees.

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE?

fact entirely ignored in the views pressed upon American public opinion. Five years before, March 18, 1909, Servia gave her word, not to Austria alone, but to the Great Powers, that this scattering of firebrands should cease—that thereafter she would live as a friendly neighbor. That shows that five years before the offense was already in existense. Did it cease? Was the word kept? In the note communicated to Sir Edward Grey by the German ambassador July 24, 1914—a note that called out from Sir Edward, not a denial, but an expression of sympathy—the German ambassador, referring to that earlier promise, says: 'It was only owing to the far-reaching self-restraint and moderation of the Austro-Hungarian government, and to the energetic interference of the Great Powers, that the Servian provocation to which Austria-Hungary was then (March, 1909) exposed did not lead to a conflict. The assurance of good conduct in the future which was then given by the Servian government has not been kept. Under the eyes, at least with the tacit permission of official Servia, the great Servian propaganda has continuously increased in extension and intensity; to its account must be set the recent crime the threads of which lead to Belgrade'; an indictment that none of the Powers so much as question—neither the foreign offices nor embassies of Russia, England or France—and to which Servia practically pleads guilty in her answer to the Austrian ultimatum already stated.

"Now in view of this, what was Austria-Hungary to do? Accept the word of Servia again? We must look at it not from the standpoint of those who think the Austro-Hungarian government ought to be destroyed, but from the standpoint of Austria-Hungary herself. What would we of America do, if despite a solemn promise to desist, some neighboring nation continued to stir up racial revolution among our people—say Spain among the Porto Ricans or Philippines? Would we accept that nation's word again? It is a just and generous nature that accepts the offender's word on the first offense, but a foolish or craven nature that continues to accept it through repetitions of the offense. Let us not lose sight of the practical side of the problem as presented to Austria. The spirit behind these attacks on Austria-Hungary was not the spirit of the Servian government only, but the spirit of the Servian people also. A government may be reached sometimes by protest. But there are cases in which a people can only be reached by some tangible military demonstration. History is replete with demonstrations of that kind; so that the problem of Austria, now that the government's word could no longer be taken, was to impress the people of Servia with Austria-Hungary's purpose not to be silent longer under these flying firebrands. We went to war with Spain for less than Austria was suffering at the hands of Servia. England declared war on the republic of Paul Kruger for less. And Italy declared war on Turkey for less. And in each case the war closed with territory detached from the vanquished and taken by the victor. Were we wrong? More than that: Did any great outside Power even say Nay? On the contrary, we were left to deal with the problem as we thought right. Why, then, should any outside Power say Nay to Austria, especially if no territory was to be taken? Morally right in her demand on Servia, to sit in at the investigation, why was not Austria left alone to enforce that right, as England, the United States and Italy had been left to enforce their rights?

SEEKING LARGEST TREES

Foresters of the United States are interested in the announcement recently made by the American Genetic association that two prizes of $100 each have been offered for two photographs—one of the largest tree of a nut-bearing variety in the United States, and one of the largest broad-leaf tree which does not bear edible seeds. In the first class, for example, are included trees such as chestnut, oak, walnut, butternut and pecan, and in the second trees such as elm, birch, maple, cottonwood and tulip poplar. No photographs of cone-bearing trees are wanted, since it is definitely known that the California big trees have no rivals among conifers. At a later time the association may take up the same question as between the various kinds of conifers—as pines, spruces, firs, cedars and cypresses.

The purpose of the competition, as stated by the association, is to find out in what regions the native trees attain largest growth, and under what conditions they thrive best.

When these large trees are located and the measurements authenticated, the association hopes that it may be possible to secure seeds, cuttings or grafting wood from thrifty trees in the region where they grow, to see whether finer specimens may be propagated in other parts of the country. It is hoped in this manner to get some particularly choice strains of native trees established in regions where good specimens are not now found.

It is assumed by the association that seed from the region where the largest trees grow ought to produce larger and stronger trees than from regions where only small trees are found. By finding out where the large trees are and then planting seeds from them in other locations, the association hopes to demonstrate the practical value to horticulture and forestry of the laws of heredity. Now that reforestation is becoming a pressing problem, the question of seed trees which will produce particularly good offspring is naturally coming to the fore.

Other influences, of course, will have a bearing on the subject, and the results of the investigation may help to settle the question as to whether trees can be acclimatized. Even if they cannot be, there may be cases where trees in a new environment may make better growth than the best in their native range. This is said to be true of certain of the Australian eucalypts, and of the Monterey pine, which does not amount to much in its native location in California, but has proved of great value in New Zealand.

The federal forest service has conducted some studies along this line and has discovered, for example, that the Douglas fir of the Rocky mountains and the Douglas fir of the Pacific coast, while the same species, have different characteristics and will produce trees like the parent stock, modified somewhat, however, by environment. For example, if the two forms are planted together, during the earlier period of its life, at least, the Pacific coast form will make a larger and stronger growth than the Rocky mountain tree, provided it is not affected by adverse local conditions.

Several other questions, such as the climatic requirements of trees grown in different localities, will, of course, enter into the final solution of the problem. It has been found in Germany, for example, that the Pacific coast form of Douglas fir is not as hardy as the Rocky mountain form, which has to endure in its native habitat severe extremes of temperature; and German foresters have been working to discover a strain of Douglas fir which will combine, as far as possible, the hardiness of the Rocky mountain form and the large size of the Pacific coast form.

Some authorities go so far as to say that even the ingenuity and perseverance of man are unable to induce trees to change their habits far enough to adopt a country not closely like their native habitat.

This fastidiousness in the habits of trees has its good and its bad sides they say. It absolutely limits the forester's choice of trees to grow in a given region. But, on the other hand, there is practical certainty of results. If beech or spruce thrive where the average warmth and moisture of the growing season from year to year ranges between certain degrees, then wherever else the same average is found, in the northern hemisphere at least, the forester may plant beech or spruce, whether or not they are already there, with confidence that they will flourish.

The announced purpose of the Genetic association is to bring about the dissemination of seed or stock of the best specimens, when found, to demonstrate, if possible, the value of heredity in tree growing. The contest for the $100 photographs is announced to end on July 1, 1915, on which date, says the secretary of the Genetic association in Washington, the offer will terminate.

What Makes a Bank Strong?

In judging a bank, always remember that it is Capital, Surplus and Undivided Profits that give security to the depositor, because that money is what stands between you as a depositor and any possible shrinkage in the securities held by the bank.

Few banks in the country have a larger margin of safety than the Bank of Glendale, which, with the watchful interest of a very capable and conservative board of directors and the constant inspection of the State Superintendent of Banks and the Los Angeles Clearing House Examiner, give assurance of absolute security.

Capital $50,000.00.
Surplus $4,300.00.
Undivided Profits (over) $14,000.00.

We invite your business.

This clear autumn weather is a mighty fine time to take pictures. We're headquarters for Eastman Kodaks and Supplies—also do printing, developing and enlarging.

Yes, we've a fine line of rubber goods; and, by the way, hot water bottles come in mighty convenient these cool evenings or in treating a cold. Better order one today. Just phone 156. We deliver immediately.

Dozens of the kiddies in Glendale have entered the contest, in which I give five valuable prizes to the boys and girls under high school age who make the most words from the letters in "Munson, the Drug Man." There's still plenty of time to enter the contest. Come in and ask about it. The prizes will be displayed in our window Tuesday of next week. Look for them.

President Wilson:

"I was most gratified to hear of the nomination of former Mayor James D. Phelan for United States Senator. He has been in close touch with the administration in Washington, and has heartily supported the policies which have been inaugurated for the benefit of the people—

MRS. SIMONS TO SPEAK ON RED LIGHT ABATEMENT LAW

Legislative day will be next Tuesday afternoon at Masonic hall, 2:30 o'clock. All who are interested in the "red light abatement act," to be discussed by Mrs. Seward A. Simons, are cordially invited to attend.

There will be no admission charged and members will not be required to give out guest cards for the program.

The State Federation of Women's clubs is working to secure the passage of the red light abatement law and for that reason this day will be an open meeting for any who may desire to attend. Mrs. Simons is first vice-president of the Friday Morning club of Los Angeles and also district chairman of legislature and a very fine speaker.

Another measure to be discussed is the Torrens land law, by Mrs. Wilbur D. Chapman.

Musical numbers will be given by Miss Dorothy Armstrong, violin, and Miss Choebe Armstrong, piano.

A good resolution made today with fixed will-power behind it to put it into execution, is just as good as a resolution made on New Year's. It makes little difference when a good resolution is made. It makes all the difference how it is made and how strongly one is determined to live up to it.

WHAT THE BRAVES DID

Baseball in all its panoramic years, shifting favorites, fleeting fames and crowded moments of personal achievements, has never before furnished quite the spectacle of the advance of the Boston team of the National league from inconsequence to primacy. Falling in the first tests of the season to the low level known in the vernacular of the game as the sub-cellar, it rose by a swift succession of victories over its rivals in the league to the capture of the pennant, and with it accepted the task of meeting the seasoned experts of the American league in an engagement for the championship of the world. What it has done in that respect is in the news of the day. Here is an achievement that defeats all the expectations of the close watchers of the game, those experts whose comprehensive acquaintances includes the history and the equipment to the last point of every player, and is at once the admiration and the despair of the man who is called from ordinary pursuits to attention to the crowning events of a season. And it is an achievement that commands an interest and is not without its meaning outside the precincts and purlieus of the sport.

After all has been said of the skill of certain players, of the prowess of powerful batters and the nimbleness of swift fielders, and of the working together as of a perfected machine, there is the contribution of a new example of grim, unyielding determination. The Braves would not accept the ignominy of the low place in their league; they were not content to win a moderate advance; they sought and fought for the first honor in their own field; they were not appalled at meeting the men of established mastery from the other camp; they went out with a purpose that was personal to each of them and the compulsion of the whole of them to give the fullest account of their ability to play the game.

Refusal to accept defeat, denial of any limitations, persistence in effort—these factors in all successes are newly justified in the achievement of these players of an exacting game.

By-laws of the United States federal reserve banks have now been outlined. To obtain them in condensed and explicit form it will be necessary only to have a business talk later on with one of the reserve bank cashiers.
